IF YOU WOULD REDUCE

the fire hazard on your premises, it would be well to have your electric wiring carefully examined by a competent electrician and overhauled if necessary. Great progress has been made in recent years by electrical engineers and installations that were standard ten or fifteen years ago are now out of date. Defective wiring is responsible for a large share of the annual fire waste.

Mr. Copeland's Recital

It is always a pleasure to hear a pianist treat his instrument other than as a wild beast which he intends to slay. Mr. Copeland's playing lacks neither breadth nor power, but he gains his effects by an intellectual and emotional appreciation of the musical phrases in their relations and contrasts, knowing that nearly related contrasts are more subtle in mood and coherent in texture.

While the Bach and Couperin pieces were intrinsically delightful in their delicate rhythms and their melodic beauty, the simplicity of their tonal colors served admirably to bring out the richness of color in the Chopin, Liszt and Debussy numbers. There was great beauty of tone and balance in the Chopin etude and charming nuance in the waltz.

It was in the Debussy numbers that the unique quality of Mr. Copeland's playing was especially manifest. The works by this eminent contemporary French composer with the poetic imagination seem to have been conceived expressly for Mr. Copeland's genius. Under his hands, these works are more like improvisations than the creation of another mind. The "Soiree dans Grenade" was full of suggestion as delicately rendered as a silver-point drawing; the "Minstrels" sparkled with humor, and in the "Cathedrale Engloutie" he produced the sense of vastness and august stillness. The Spanish dances by Chabrier and Grovlez brought the recital to a brilliant close.

The next recital will be given on Saturday afternoon, February 15. Mrs. Marie Sundelius, soprano, of Boston will be the soloist.

THREATS MADE BY CONDUCTORS

Plan to Join Strike of Aroostook Engine Crews

THEY DEMAND BETTER WAGES

Claim That Contract Labor Laws Are Violated by Railroad—No Freight Being Moved and Potato Men Stand to Lose Heavily if Present Conditions Continue Much Longer

Bangor, Me., Jan. 23.—Threats by the conductors of the Bangor and Aroostook railroad to join the strike of the engine crews unless the latter's demands are granted by Monday, and charges that the railroad is violating the alien contract labor laws by the alleged importation of strikebreakers from Canada are developments in the strike of 150 engineers and firemen.

The conductors have filed demands with President Todd for higher wages. Under the road's contract with the Brotherhood of Conductors, the men cannot strike for six days after making specific demands.

The specific demands were made yesterday by two grand officers of the conductors' brotherhood. The conductors demand better wages and competent engineers to run the engines behind which they ride. They declare the strikebreakers are incompetent.

The passenger train service operated with the men employed to take the places of the striking engineers and firemen was continued on the main lines, but no freight was moved. The railroad officials hope to start freight trains on Friday or Saturday.

Arrangements were made with the local electric road to run electric cars between Bangor and the North Bangor station on the Bangor and Aroostook six miles from here, to connect with all trains and transport passengers, mails and baggage. This arrangement was made necessary by the refusal of the Maine Central railroad to haul Bangor and Aroostook trains between Northern Maine Junction and Bangor union station.

The cold wave has struck Aroostook and snow yesterday covered many drouzins where potatoes are temporarily stored. Unless much of this crop is moved immediately to better storage the farmers and the middlemen who have bought up much of the crop will lose heavily. Such a loss would exceed $1,000,000.

President Todd of the Bangor and Aroostook stated that the company now had actually on hand enough locomotive engineers and firemen to man all passenger trains and all regular freight trains, but on account of the large number of these men brought forward it has not been possible to have all of them examined.

It will be utterly impossible to at once take all of the freight offered from every station, and the position of the Bangor and Aroostook company is that it desires first to move that freight that will greatly benefit Aroostook county as a whole.

MUST ARBITRATE

Legislature Calls on Bangor and Aroostook to Submit Its Differences

Augusta, Me., Jan. 23.—The legislature, in a frankly worded resolution, called upon the Bangor and Aroostook Railroad company to submit its differences with its employees to arbitration. The strikers received the news with satisfaction, declaring the matter was now squarely up to the railroad. The men had asked for arbitration or mediation, but the company has not seen its way clear to agree to this.

Before learning of the action of the legislature, President Todd said he could only repeat the statement which he made before the strike was declared. He then said that arbitration or mediation meant compromise and that the financial condition of the road made a compromise impossible.

Engineers and Firemen Out
Bangor, Me., Jan. 20.—Strikebreakers are in the cabs of the Bangor and Aroostook railroad engines and an attempt is being made to keep the passenger trains on time despite the absence of the regular 150 engineers and firemen who are on a strike. Freight trains are not moving.

The striking engineers and firemen ask an increase in wages from 12 to 24 percent. For instance, the engineers get $3.75 to $4.30 per hundred miles. They want 17 percent more. They claim this increase is not more than the scale adopted by all other eastern railroads. They also want shorter working hours and more comfortable accommodations at the terminals.

BOYS KILLED JAPANESE

Three Are Sent to Reform School on Charge of Manslaughter

Boston, Jan. 20.—Richard Powers, Jr., 13 years old; Frank Carroll, 15, and Timothy Lucey, 15, charged with manslaughter in causing the death of an unidentified Japanese whose body was found in an alley near Joiner street, Charlestown, were given indeterminate sentences at reform schools by Judge Bragg in the Charlestown court.

Powers was sent to the Lyman school and his companions will be confined at Rainsford island. The boys will probably be kept in confinement until they are 21.

Powers testified that the Japanese attacked him. "I pushed him away with my hand," he said, "and later I went through his pockets and got $8.11. Included in the money was a $5 bill which I changed in a store by buying 5 cents' worth of candy. Then I gave Carroll $4.50."

TWO KILLED IN CRASH

Meagre Message of Rear-End Collision of Trains in Maine

Brownsville Junction, Me., Jan. 22.—A rear-end collision between trains on the Canadian Pacific railroad at Onawa station last night caused the death of two men and injuries to several others.

One of the men killed was Dr. Daniel W. Hayes of Brownsville, who was returning from attendance on a patient.

The other victim was Fred Crandall, also of this town, who was engineer of one of the trains. The names of the injured are not known.

The meagre message received here said the accident was a rear-end collision, and from this fact railroad employees expressed the opinion that the passenger train probably ran into a freight. The officials of the railroad would give no information.

COURT DEALS BLOW TO "LOAN SHARKS"

Additional Sums Squeezed From Borrowers Are Illegal

Albany, Jan. 23.—The court of appeals dealt a severe blow to the so-called "loan shark" business when it held as illegal the practice of exacting additional sums from borrowers under the guise of payments for expenses incurred in drawing up papers and examining the title of property.

The court says that under a law recently enacted persons or corporations engaged in loaning money on personal property cannot charge more than 2 percent per month and not more than $2 for expenses incurred on loans of less than $200.

GETS LIFE SENTENCE

Son Is Chief Witness Against Farmer Who Killed His Wife

Exeter, N. H., Jan. 22.—George B. Caswell, a Plaistow farmer, was sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of his wife last May.

Caswell's son, Bertram, aged 13 years, told the court how his father had sent him with a message to his mother, the parents having lived apart, asking for a meeting at the Plaistow cross-roads.

At this meeting Caswell discharged the contents of one barrel of a shotgun into his wife's body with fatal effect and then turned the other barrel on himself.

Caswell was permanently disfigured and barely escaped with his life.

DEATH CHAIR IN VERMONT

Measure in Its Favor Is Passed by Both Branches of Legislature

Montpelier, Vt., Jan. 22.—Only one more legal hanging will be carried out in Vermont if Governor Fletcher signs a bill passed by both branches of the legislature.

By the provisions of this bill, if it is enacted into law, electrocution will displace hanging as the legal form of death in this state.

The bill passed yesterday will allow one more hanging, as it excepts cases where sentence has been passed prior to the passage of the bill.

Hospital Ambulance in Collision

QUIET WEDDING OF MISS GOULD

Noted Woman Becomes the Bride of Finley J. Shepard

SIMPLICITY IN THE DETAILS

Broken Only by Elaborate Musical Program by Large Orchestra—Two Little Nieces Only Attendants of Bride, Who Is Given Away by Brother—Honeymoon at Tarrytown

New York, Jan. 22.—Miss Helen Gould was married today at her country home, Lyndhurst, in Tarrytown, to Finley J. Shepard. The ceremony took place at 12:30 in the flower-laden south parlor of the big house, to which only the intimate relatives and a very few intimate friends were invited.

The wedding party formed up stairs and came down led by Rev. Dr. Russell. Then came Miss Gould's two little nieces, Dorothy and Helen Gould, and her brother, George Gould, who gave her away.

Miss Dorothy Gould held Miss Gould's bouquet while the ring was being placed on her finger, and Miss Helen saw that Miss Gould's train was kept unruined.

Miss Gould chose this date for her wedding, which is the anniversary of the marriage of her father and mother, and which despite the fact that she insisted on the greatest simplicity in the details there was an elaborate musical program by an orchestra of fifty players, which played, while the wedding guests were assembling, compositions by Elgar, Schuman, Wagner, Mendelssohn, Massenet and Godard, and during the marriage ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Daniel P. Russell, Handel's "Largo." The wedding music included the nuptial march from "Lohengrin" and the familiar wedding march from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream."

FINLEY J. SHEPARD

Miss Gould had as her only attendants her two nieces, Helen and Dorothy Gould, the little daughters of her brother, Frank J. Gould. Louis J. Shepard acted as his brother's best man, but there were no ushers.

Miss Gould's wedding gown of ivory white satin was embellished by rare point lace, the gift of her sister, the Duchess de Talleyrand-Perigord, and her veil was also of point lace. She entered the drawing room with her brother, George J. Gould.

Immediately after the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served by Delmonico. The wedding cake boxes were heart-shaped and embellished with white satin and ornamented with sprays of lilies of the valley, the bride's favorite flower.

The wedding certificate is a product of the village of Irvington, having been done on sheepskin by Miss Lucille Townsend, librarian of the town library. When the library was built Miss Gould said that the interior was properly decorated and it was thought Miss Townsend could in this manner show the appreciation of the town. The nuptial ceremony was done by Miss Helen Lewis.

At the bottom of it is the following verse from the fifth chapter of Ephesians: "Let every one of you in particular so love his wife even as himself, and the wife see that she reverence her husband."

The various rooms of Lyndhurst were decorated with American Beauty roses and other flowers from the conservatories of Lyndhurst, and there were quantities of lilies of the valley. Shepard and his bride will pass the early part of their honeymoon on the estate, although later they may sail for Europe.

DOPE FOUND HIDDEN IN POSTAL CARDS

Embossed Variety Barred in Massachusetts State Prison

Boston, Jan. 21.—To prevent the smuggling of drugs into the Charlestown state prison, Warden Bridges has forbidden the delivery to prisoners of embossed postcards sent by friends and relatives.

It was discovered that attempts had been made to send in powdered morphine and cocaine by cleverly concealing the drug within the raised surfaces of embossed postals and fancy Christmas and New Year's cards.

It is charged that a woman in New York manufactured the cards and supplied the drugs. The police there are trying to locate her. Convicts who have since confessed say she charged 25 cents each for the cards and extra for the drugs, obtaining a large revenue from the traffic.

All picture postcards, except those on a single thickness of plain paper, are now held by the officers who examine the Charlestown prison mail.

It is alleged that Eaton, angered by the taunts and threats of a crowd of strikers who had been following him, fired his revolver at the crowd, the bullet striking Harris in the abdomen.

The governor's letter requested that the ball be abandoned.

END OF TURKISH RULE IN EUROPE

Will Come With Signing of Peace Treaty in Near Future

COUNCIL OF EMPIRE SUBMITS

Agrees to Surrender of Adrianople, Salonica and Scutari, and Will Probably Cede Islands in Aegean Sea to Greece—Way Now Seems Clear For Establishment of Peace

Constantinople, Jan. 23.—The grand council of the empire, more commonly known as the national assembly, decided at a secret session to accept the proposals put forward by the powers for the purpose of concluding peace between Turkey and the allies.

Eighty notables, representing all the Moslem districts of the Turkish empire, were present. Chiefs of the non-Moslem precincts were not invited.

The joint note of the powers advised Turkey to cede Adrianople to the allies and to leave the fate of the Aegean islands to the powers for future determination. In return the powers promised their benevolent support so long as Turkey deferred to their counsel.

The meeting of the grand council, which was fraught with such grave importance, was of brief duration, and the decision in favor of accepting the views of the powers was an almost unanimous one.

As a result of the decision it is expected peace negotiations will soon be renewed in London, when Adrianople will be ceded to Bulgaria.

The vote in favor of peace and against war means that hostilities will not be resumed in the Balkans unless an unexpected break occurs.

This surrender by the national assembly is believed to mean not only the surrender of Adrianople but the cession of Salonica and Scutari to Greece, the autonomy of Albania under Turkish suzerainty, the probable cession of the islands in the Aegean sea to Greece and the territorial limitation of Turkey in Europe to Constantinople and a small strip bounding it on the north and west.

With the signing of the treaty Turkey in Europe becomes to all intents and purposes a thing of the past. The "Terrible Turk" will be no more outside Asia. Thus the Balkan allies' victory is almost unprecedented as the fruits of so short a war. The whole map of southern Europe is changed by the sublime port's downfall.

There has been a notable change in the tone of the Turkish press. The newspapers almost unanimously declare the porte had no option but to bow to the wishes of Europe. They, therefore, advocate the immediate summoning of a national assembly to give moral support to the government in concluding peace under the best possible terms, as it would be a mistake to continue the war in opposition to the wishes of Europe.

QUESTION OF INDEMNITY

Crucial Point of Difference Which Remains to Be Settled

London, Jan. 23.—The plenipotentiaries of the Balkan kingdoms are immensely pleased over the decision of the grand council at Constantinople to accept the advice of the powers.

While it had become increasingly certain in the past forty-eight hours that the Turkish elder statesmen were prepared to face the bitter fate that ends the empire's history as an European nation, it was hardly expected they would register their decision so quickly and so definitely.

This is so unlike the customary Turkish tactics that some suspicion is entertained, without supporting proof, that Turkey might still have some cards up her sleeve.

One crucial point of difference remains to be settled in the question of indemnity. The allies propose to levy a heavy payment upon the defeated nation. They speak of $200,000,000 as an adequate sum. Their minimum is an amount equal to the Turkish debts attached to the territories which they will annex under the treaty.

The Turks are likely to contest the indemnity strongly, and the bankrupt condition of their country furnishes them with a potent argument for an appeal to the powers.

BOILERS BLOW UP

Two Men Killed and Others Injured in Pulp and Paper Plant

Howland, Me., Jan. 21.—Two men were killed and three others injured when the boilers at the Howland Pulp and Paper company's mill exploded. The boilerhouse, containing seven boilers, was situated some distance from the mill buildings.

GREAT INCREASE OF BUSINESS

Within six years we have more than doubled our sales.

The reason is that we specialize on prices. People now know that we sell our goods at the lowest possible margin of profit.

We intend to pursue the same policy this year and by constant hammering on these two points—service and low prices—hope to be able to announce at the year's end a gain greater in proportion than we now declare.

Tariff Revision

The gathering at Washington this week and next, of the men interested in the textile business, means considerably more to the average working man employed in New England than to any other bunch of people in the United States.

The present tariff revision is being carried on in a very different manner from the methods followed in any tariff revision and discussion for many years. Very little time is being given to any party who may desire to appear and oppose any of the proposed changes. From ten minutes to an hour seems to be all that those who have charge of the committee hearings consider necessary for a full and complete exposition of the needs of any one of the great businesses upon which New England is built. The cotton people succeeded in holding the attention of the Ways and Means Committee nearly all of one day, but almost entirely because the committee found some satisfaction in heckling one or two of the witnesses who laid themselves open to Southern offense.

The president of the local flax mill is in Washington doing his best to defend the schedule upon which the business of the Smith & Dove Company has been developed and the operatives have secured steady and remunerative employment. The men who are appearing at Washington can probably take care of themselves, whatever the result may be of the deliberations of the Committee, and of the House and Senate, who will ultimately decide upon the change in tariff laws. If there is to be any suffering because of the drive towards free trade, (and we are of those who believe there will be) it will come to the poorer people who have no opportunity to defend themselves against the aggression of other sections of the country in fields of industrial activity, where New England is today preeminent.

The political problem involved in all this isn't going to be adjusted by the changes that may be made in tariff. It never has been and never will be, but it behooves those people who have felt that the high cost of living is entirely due to the "robber barons" who keep the mills running to watch pretty carefully results of the present agitation, and learn for themselves whether the men who have believed that American industry must have protection in order to maintain American standards, are wrong; or whether those who are mistaken are the theoretical, educated, reform element who buy English woollens for their clothes, and who sell English notions in political economy to the students of the United States. In nine cases out of ten these men become the theoretical free traders without any recognition of the practical value of protection, which has made it possible for them to secure their present superior theoretical education.

Editorial Cinders

The Burns concert last Friday was one of the best entertainments that the town has had for many a day. Best not only of the sort, but best in every sense of the word, because it pleased a great, big audience and made them happier and better because of the character of enjoyment that had been passed along during the evening. From a detailed standpoint, the musical critic would find much to enjoy. The laugh was provided for, the keener pleasure was secured through several different features which made a variety and a spice always clean and wholesome, and altogether the affair was a credit to the committee who worked out this delightful evening, and to the great character in whose honor it was provided.

In acknowledging some of the attractive New Year's greetings which have come to the Townsman office we have overlooked the signs of prosperity made so clear through the neat calendar issued by our esteemed contemporary, the Wakefield Daily Item. The calendar itself is not unusual, but is interesting because of its illustration of the new building which the Item publishers have completed during the past year. Built exclusively for their own use, it is a model plant, in which not only the publishers have a right to take considerable pride, but which will be a source of satisfaction to our neighboring town. Congratulations to Editor Dolbear and his associates.

The first thing Andover knows she will be erecting white lights and renaming Essex street "Broadway."

Free Church Parish Meeting

The annual meeting of the Free church parish was held on Monday evening, Charles W. Clark was elected moderator, and George A. Higgins acted as clerk.

The report of the treasurer, J. W. Bell, showing an indebtedness of $130, was read and accepted. The recommendations of the finance committee were also heard and same were approved by the parish.

The following officials were then elected to serve for the ensuing year: Clerk, G. A. Higgins.

Treasurer, John W. Bell.

Auditor, Charles W. Clark.

Prudential committee: the deacons and William Coutts, David May, Frank Buttrick, and W. S. Donald.

Sexton and collector, Alexander Dick.

A Year of Prosperity

That is a splendid statement which the Merrimack Insurance Company gives to its stockholders and to those who are interested in it, as a record of its past year of service. Marking as it does the closing year of business activity for its long-time president, Mr. Smart, it will be a pleasant record to carry on the insurance books in that association. Marking as it does the efficient labors of the two men who have been promoted through the death of Mr. Smart, it will be an incentive to them to continue the efficient management of this public institution along the same lines of clean business, honorable dealing, and cordial relationship which have so long marked the insurance life directed by the Merrimack Company and its officials.

It was most proper that Mr. Flagg should be promoted, and should take the practical control of the business in which he has been so successful since he came to Andover. He has seen it grow handsomely from year to year, with 1912 as the banner year. He has contributed to a wider knowledge of insurance problems and conservation of property through care, by knowing the problem himself and passing the knowledge along intelligently to his patrons. He has lifted the service of insurance out of the mere payment of premiums and losses into a place where those who deal with him and his company, appreciate that the duty of both parties is as mutual in the preservation of property as it is in its protection. The people of Andover will cordially welcome him to a position which has been filled so honorably by several of her best citizens in the last ninety years of service which the Merrimack Insurance Company has rendered to Andover and her constituents.

It is good to see Mr. Moore promoted to the office of secretary, and very best wishes will be his, extended by all of the friends of the company who have learned to value highly his efficient business activity, his interest in public affairs, and his service rendered so freely and so frequently in a semi-public way through his activity in musical circles. With the incentive of the past record of which the Company and its officials may well be proud, there would seem to be promise of long-continued prosperity for the Merrimack Insurance Company under its new officials.

Transporting School Children

The communication published elsewhere about the conduct of the school children on the street cars is timely and important. Unfortunately its timeliness comes through the serious accident to one of the small boy passengers which occurred this week. It's point has been pressing for attention for several years, with ever-increasing force.

Two generations ago the boys and girls walked to school, and some of them walked several miles. They grew up strong men and women, and few complaints were ever heard that they "sassed" their elders, or "rough-housed" everything they came in contact with. The age of pampering arrived, and with it everything became free. One of the latest "free" things to arrive has been transportation. Some of those thus transported ride in the busses but many have been given the free run of the electric cars.

As passengers they have become nuisances to all who happened to be on the cars with them, and a real problem to those who are put in charge of them as conductors. For the most part the railway conductors have felt the added responsibility these kids have brought to them and have tried to maintain discipline but there have been a few cases where all kinds of fooling have been allowed and even encouraged.

That some one has not been injured before this, is almost a miracle, but now that the warning has come, it is to be hoped that some positive steps will be taken to remedy an evil that was fast becoming intolerable. We believe the remedy lies in the hands of the school committee, and cannot refrain from urging them to apply the same with vigor.

Let the school committee issue tickets to students for use upon good behavior, with authority vested in the conductor to take up a ticket when any child becomes a nuisance or even a disturber, and it wouldn't take many days of car fare paying with the attendant discipline that should be applied in school and at home, to make riding upon the cars where the children are found, safer for them, and more comfortable for regular passengers.

Child Thrown From Trolley

Chalmers Dyke, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Dyke of Ballardvale road, who is an eleven-year-old pupil in the John Dove school, met with a serious accident on Wednesday morning while on his way to school. He had just boarded the car, and, according to the story of the children who were with him, was getting out his ticket to hand to the conductor, when the car gave a lurch and he was thrown out through the door with great force, falling upon his back and hurting his head severely.

The child was taken into the car and carried to Dr. Walker's office, being later removed to his home on Ballardvale road where he now lies suffering from concussion of the brain. His recovery is expected, however.

The 154th anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns was fittingly celebrated in the town hall last Friday evening under the auspices of Clan Johnston, No. 185, O. S. C., and the members of that organization have every reason to be proud of the great success achieved. There was a large and representative gathering not only of those of Scottish birth and ancestry, but also of the lovers in Andover of Scottish song. There were visitors also from Lawrence, Haverhill, Boston, Manchester, N. H., and from the neighboring towns, and everyone present felt amply repaid, for the concert as a whole was undoubtedly the best and most enjoyable ever given under the auspices of the local clansmen. Two of the soloists had already appeared in Andover, Miss Hood last year and Mr. Singer several times, while Mrs. Tanner and Mr. Young, the new-comers, were both singers of great merit and their work was appreciated and warmly applauded.

The hall was very prettily decorated with the "Stars and Stripes" and the "Lion Rampant," the Scottish standard, and draperies of white and old gold, while the decorations and arrangement of the stage surpassed anything ever seen in Andover. The whole effect of columns and arches with rows of colored electric lights was most pleasing and added to the enjoyableness of the occasion.

The Columbian orchestra played an overture consisting of old Scottish melodies and the offerings of modern song writers, and this, the opening number, was greatly appreciated. Chief Edwin Nicoll, in behalf of his fellow-clansmen, welcomed the audience and spoke as follows:

CHIEF EDWIN NICOLL

"Ladies and Gentlemen, it gives me great pleasure to welcome you this evening on behalf of Clan Johnston, to celebrate the 154th anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns, the Scottish poet, who was so loved and honored during the early part of his stormy and checkered career, and comparatively neglected during his later years, but who has risen at last to an elevation in the affections of his countrymen, and of the lovers of song in general, which has no parallel in the annals of literature. Rich and poor alike have enshrined him in their hearts. The farmers on Australian and New Zealand plains, the diggers in South African and Columbian mines, the settler on the banks of the St. Lawrence river and by the shores of the great American Lakes, the trapper in the great Canadian wilds; in short, wherever men of Scottish birth or descent are found, there are the admirers of the Scottish poet, animated by a warmth of admiration which is entirely exceptional, all the warmer, doubtless, because he who has been the channel of imparting so much happiness and joy to the world was himself so unhappy."

"Homer, Virgil, Dante and Shakespeare have, perhaps, more than any other poets left the impress of their minds on their readers and admirers, but none of them has so leavened the thought and speech of the great mass of his fellow countrymen so thoroughly as Burns, for he was, essentially, one of the people in birth, breeding and instinct."

"The poor man, whom Burns's vigorous assertion of the native nobility of manhood has enabled to bear up more courageously under the proud man's rudeness and the insolence of rank; the patriot of every social degree, whose sentiments he has clothed in the noblest of language; the youthful lover for whom he has uttered, more exquisitely than he himself was able, the tenderest and sweetest accents of passion; the man whose heart glows with sympathy for every living thing and who sees not even the mouse—'Wee, sleekit, cowrin', tim'rous beastie'—turned out of her nest, nor yet the mountain daisy torn up by the plough, without a pang and

OCCUPYING NEW TYER FACTORY

Operations commenced in new plant, with increased facilities and advantages.

COMBINED PLANTS OF THE TYER RUBBER COMPANY

The new factory of the Tyer Rubber Company which has been in the course of construction since April, 1912, is now nearly completed and the work of installing new and modern machinery is progressing rapidly. Finishing touches are being made by the contractors and employees of the owners, and within two or three weeks the hum of machinery will be heard in every department.

The factory, which is a large and spacious one, has been built for the exclusive manufacture of automobile tires, the present quarters having become too small for this growing branch of the industry. The output will be increased many times and the employment of a large force of workers will be necessary.

The plant consists of two main buildings, No. 1 mill being 200 feet long by 60 feet wide, and No. 2 mill being 200 feet long by 50 feet wide. Each mill consists of three stories and a basement and each department is partitioned off from the other with brick walls. There is plenty of light in all parts of the factory from an abundance of windows on each side and the ends of the buildings. The plant will also be lighted with electricity generated from a dynamo situated in the engine room.

The engine room is of ample size to allow of more additions to the driving plant. Already one large engine is in running order and is furnishing power to the machinery that is now running. Later another engine will be added. The boiler-room which is 70 by 80 feet now contains four boilers, but accommodation has been made for eight more. The room is large and airy and is an ideal one in every respect. The coal pocket of concrete adjoins the boiler-room and when in complete running order iron cars will be used to convey the coal from the pocket to the boilers. A spur track from the Boston and Maine station has been laid above the pocket and the cars can be emptied quickly and economically.

The plant was built by the B. F. Smith Construction Company of Pawtucket, R. I., and the architect was Charles T. Main of Boston.

Tuesday Club Guest Night

Mrs. Henry A. Bodwell opened her home on Tuesday evening to the members of the Tuesday club and their friends, on the occasion of the annual guest night of the club.

The speaker of the evening was Dr. William Harmon Van Allen of the Church of the Advent, Boston, who gave a stereoscopic lecture on Holland, a subject of special interest to the members of the club who have been making a study of that country and its people during the past month. Dr. Van Allen is particularly interested in Holland, his ancestors having lived there 300 years ago, and having had a large share in the making of its history, of which any nation might be proud.

His keen appreciation of Dutch landscapes, his interest in the life of the Dutch people, particularly of the children, his flashes of fun and humor and his brief impromptu sermons which "would intrude themselves," were all thoroughly enjoyed by his hearers.

Refreshments were served later in the evening, Mrs. H. Allison Morse and Mrs. Frank H. Hardy pouring. The dining-room and dining-table were prettily decorated with cut flowers. The following were the chairmen of the various committees: entertainment, Mrs. John V. Holt; refreshments, Mrs. Frank H. Hardy; decorations, Mrs. Arthur G. Clark.

Changes at the Post Office

Extensive changes have been commenced in the postoffice this week, which when completed will mean greater convenience for both the public and the employees of the office.

The old registration and money order room has been done away with, part of the space it formerly occupied having been taken over into the main office. The position of the letter boxes has also been considerably altered, the end towards Postoffice avenue having been carried back so that light from one of the south windows is obtainable in the corridor. This, alone, is a marked improvement, as the general gloom and necessity for lights during much of the day have been objectionable features.

The money order department will be located at the other end of the office, where mail has formerly been distributed. The rearrangement of the interior of the office made necessary by this change will result in more convenient quarters for the postmaster and clerks, a fact much appreciated by them, as, since the establishment of the parcel post there has been a marked increase in business.

To Present "Mr. Bob"

If you have not already planned to see "Mr. Bob" when he appears at the town hall on Friday evening, January 31, don't fail to at once make arrangements to do so. You will regret it later if you don't attend.

"Mr. Bob" is the title of a bright little play which is to be presented by members of the Punched Alumni Association, and which promises to be most entertaining. Excellent work has been done in the plays which have been previously presented by the association, and "Mr. Bob" bids fair to be the means of adding to this good reputation.

The cast for the play follows:
 Philip Royson Edmund Hammond
 Robert Brown, clerk for Benson & Benson Archie Mayo
 Jenkins, Miss Rebecca's butler
 Rebecca Luke, a maiden lady
 Roland Lindsay
 Catherine Rogers, her niece Anne Gillen
 Marion Bryant, Catherine's friend
 Eva Howell

Patty, Miss Rebecca's maid Cynthia Flint
 Following the play, dancing will be enjoyed until twelve o'clock, music being furnished by the Columbia orchestra.

Tickets for the evening are fifty cents each.

The report of the year's business shows that the company has just completed one of the best years in its history. Substantial gains in assets, reserve and surplus were recorded, together with a large increase in the amount of business in force, all maintaining the Company's well established reputation in these respects.

The appended table gives the financial standing of the Company together with the gains effected in 1912.

Brutal Attack on 17-Year-Old Boy

Edward Bailey, the 17-year-old son of Nathan Bailey of the River road, West Andover, met with a terrifying but fortunately not serious accident, on Sunday evening about 8 o'clock, when he was held up and stabbed.

The boy, together with some guests who had been visiting at the Bailey home, had driven to the Beacon street car line; he had put his friends onto the car, and was proceeding towards home, when a man, whom young Bailey described as quite tall and wearing a gray sweater and cap, sprang out of the bushes and, grabbing the fur robe in the boy's wagon, tried to make off with it.

Considerably alarmed but still courageous, the boy held onto the robe and commenced to call for help. After two or three futile attempts, the man became enraged, pulled the boy from the team, and plunged a large knife into his body. The keen, razor-like edge cut through the boy's heavy overcoat and other clothing, but fortunately did not pierce the skin. After dealing a final blow over the head with the handle of the knife, the man gave up his brutal attack and disappeared in the direction of Toye's icehouses. The police were notified by the boy's father of the occurrence; two officers were sent to the scene and a thorough search made of the district round about, but no trace of the man could be found.

Hallelujah. What are these that are arrayed in white robes, and whence came they? These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. Hallelujah. Therefore are they before the throne of God, and serve Him day and night in His temple. They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more; neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat. For the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall feed them, and shall lead them unto living fountains of waters: and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Andover Press was held on Monday evening of this week at 7:45 o'clock.

The report of the treasurer for the year 1912 was presented, and showed the business of the past twelve months to be the largest in the history of the company.

It was also voted at the meeting to remodel the front of the Press Building.

Tendered Surprise Party

A very pleasant surprise party was tendered on Thursday evening of last week to James Gillespie of High street by the members of Clan McDonald, No. 14. The affair took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Adam on North Main street, and a large number of the friends of Mr. Gillespie were present.

During the evening, in behalf of those present, James Nairn presented Mr. Gillespie with a handsome dressing-case, at the same time expressing the desire of his many Andover friends for his success and prosperity in the new life in Winnipeg, to which he goes shortly. With a few words Mr. Gillespie thanked his friends for their kindness, and the remainder of the evening was enjoyed in a social time.

Communication

1 Orchard Street

January 23

To the Editor of the Townsman,

Dear Sir—

Will you give a little space in your columns to a new-comer in Andover, but one who has a strong feeling of loyalty to the town's best interests?

In consequence of the recent trolley accident to a schoolboy (which might have resulted far more seriously than it is hoped the case may be) one is forced to question the public spirit of the residents of Andover. How much longer are we to endure the conditions which make the trolley cars intolerable for those persons who are obliged to ride in them at certain hours, as well as dangerous to the lives, not to mention the standards of conduct, of the boys and girls who are allowed to behave in so disorderly a manner? If the town is to provide free schooling, free books and free transportation, are the tax-payers to be assessed also for the free education in lawlessness of our future citizens?

The writer boarded the car yesterday in the brief interval between the accident and the return to pick up the boy; it is a pleasure to bear witness to the fact that the conductor in charge is conspicuous for his endeavors to enforce order and obedience, as well as to care for the safety of the children. Unfortunately it is impossible for a man to be taking fares at the front end of a car and at the same time prevent rough-house or heedlessness on the rear platform; in this case he is therefore free from blame, but does not grave responsibility rest with the Bay State Railway Co., the School Board, parents, who are either ignorant or indifferent to the unruly behavior of their children, and with the residents of Andover who have so little regard for its real welfare?

The spirit of fair play that exists in every boy, concealed though it may often be by bad training, might well be appealed to in this situation. Let us see some good team-work between the trolley company, the school authorities, parents, children and public-spirited citizens, that a way may be found out of the conditions that go far toward modifying the advantages of compulsory free education!

Very truly yours,
 MARTHA W. PACKARD

McDOUGALL'S MUSINGS

Robert Burns

One hundred and fifty-four years have passed since Robert Burns or Burness, was born.

"There was a lad was born in Kyle, But what-na day an' what-na style, I doubt it's hardly worth the while To be sae nice wi' Robin."

"Robin was a rovin' Boy, Rantin'-rovin'-rantin'-rovin', Robin was a rovin'-Boy, Rantin'-rovin'-Robin."

The date of his birth is given as 25th January, 1759, and the date of his death as 26th July, 1796.

The little clay biggin' "wi' a But and a Ben" and a thatched roof, is yearly visited by thousands of people, many from this country. The visitors to this little cottage near the town of Ayr and not far from the auld kirk of Alloway where the de'il "a touzie tyke" played the bagpipes while the witches did the real turkey trot dance.

It is interesting to note that more visitors go annually to see the auld brio' o' Ayr than the number who visit the birthplace of Shakespeare.

When Burns was sixteen years of age he was doing a man's work on a farm, and this early hard work gave a stoop to his shoulders. All the education he got was at the parish, or as we call it today, the grammar school. On Sundays, as the custom was then, he went regularly to church, the old Presbyterian church, where he heard the loud, hard-shell Calvinistic sermons on the decrees of God and man's free will. There are three things necessary to have before one can appreciate or understand what this sweet singer of Scotland wrote.

First, a knowledge of the Bible; second, a knowledge of the Scotch dialect; third, it is also necessary to know something about the folklore and habits of Scotland a hundred years ago. In addition to these three essential things, to have a little idea of the politics of the world at that time helps one to enjoy Burns's satire when he speaks about emperors, kings and sic-like cattle.

I have mentioned that the visiting of auld Alloway kirk where Satan played the music to the witches as they danced the turkey trot very much decolleto, to the delight of Satan and Tam O'Shanter, is more popular than visiting the shrine of that wonderful genius who made Hamlet's father's ghost familiar to us all, and even the Hell broth made by the witches in "Macbeth" does not appeal to the heart of humanity like "Well done Cutty sark." Even that wizard of the North, Sir Walter Scott, the prince of novel writers and no mean hand at writing poetry, who died just the year before I was born, at his beautiful place at Abbotsford, with the grand river Tweed and all the beauties of Melrose Abbey, does not attract visitors as much as the auld clay biggin' of Burns.

Critics differ as to the gem of Burns's poems; all agree that his songs are wonderful in their sweetness and pathos. When the first edition of his poems was printed in Kilmarnock in 1786, the "Cottar's Saturday Night" was supposed to be the best of his work. Since that time critics have not changed in admiring the "Cottar," but many competent judges give first place to "Tam O'Shanter." My mother, who could repeat all of Burns's poems and songs said that "The Two Dogs" was the best thing in the Scotch dialect in existence.

ABBOTT VILLAGE

The Andover United football club held their usual business meeting on Monday in the lower room of the village hall. In the business of the club was transacted, the entertaining committee held a meeting. They arranged for a farewell party and dance in Abbott Village hall on Wednesday evening, January 29, in honor of President Alexander Anderson who is going on a vacation to his native town, Arbroath, Scotland. Admission: gentlemen 35c, ladies 25c. Mr. Anderson will sail from Boston on Thursday, January 30.

The Abbott Village Temperance society will hold their concert and dance in the Abbott Village hall on Friday, January 31, commencing at eight p.m. Tickets, 15 cents. The following will take part in the concert: Henry Fairweather, the Harry Lander of New England; also the Creighton troupe of Scottish dancers, five in number. This troupe has appeared in some of the leading music halls in Boston, and will alone be worth the admission fee.

Patrick Lynch of Brechin Terrace has severed his connection with the Smith & Dove Company after being employed by this company for over sixteen years as second hand in the wet spinning room. On Saturday morning last the workers of the wet spinning room presented him with a beautiful watch fob with a Knights of Columbus emblem attached. He was well liked by all those employed under him and many are sorry at his leaving. He will enter the employ of the Tyer Rubber Company.

The Andover United football club have signed on the following players for the Marshall cup competition: Coleman, halfback, Jackson, fullback, of the Clans of Lawrence; and Smith, fullback, from the London (England) Caledonians. This player visited America with the Pilgrim Football club of England a number of years ago.

Sergeant Edward Rodgers, 60th New York Regiment, spent Tuesday visiting Joseph Corry of Cuba street.

George Emslie of Shawshen road has removed with his family to South Lawrence.

Mrs. David Leslie of Red Spring road is recovering from her recent illness.

Sir Walter Scott, who by the way had an interview with Burns while he lived in Edinburgh, mentions that he never saw a man with eyes so expressive as those of Robert Burns. Scott also says that the "Beggars' Opera," called generally "The Jolly Beggars," was the most artistic piece of work in any language.

Let me now quote from this wonderful poet as my introduction may have become tedious. As I have just mentioned, "The Jolly Beggars," and Scott's opinion thereon, I give the first verse of the old soldier's song:

"I am a son of Mars who have been in many wars, And show my cuts and scars when'er I come, This here was for a wench, and that other in a trench, When welcoming the French at the sound of the drum."

Anyone who reads the "Cottar" will note at once how necessary it is to know the Bible before the beauties of the poem can appeal to him. I do not know where the whole scope and teachings of Scripture are so tersely and lovingly stated as when the portion of Scripture to be read is noticed. Abraham, Moses, Isaiah, King David, the royal Bard, and Job are all mentioned in one stanza. Then the New Testament is spoken of as telling "How guiltless blood for guilty man was shed"; his strong Calvinistic teaching is apparent, and in one other stanza all is mentioned, not forgetting the book of Revelation.

I have mentioned Shakespeare and Scott. Shakespeare tells us about the youth with a "woeful ballad made to his mistress' eyebrows." Scott speaks about a well-bred young cavalier who could dance at hall and carve at board and make love ditties passing rare and sing them to a lady fair. Burns gives us the ditty and ballad in perhaps the finest love song ever written—

"I see her in the dewy flowers,
So lovely, fresh and fair,
I hear her voice in ilka bird,
Wi' music charms the air,
There's no a bonny flow'r that springs
By fountain shaw or green,
Nor yet a bonnie bird that sings
But minds me o' my Jean."

In the very midst of mirth, good ale and pawky stories in his "Tam O' Shanter," the following lines occur. A versatile French writer said of these lines that if Burns had never written anything else he would have been notable as a true poet.

"But pleasures are like poppies spread,
You seize the flower's its bloom is shed,
Or like the snow falls in the river,
A moment white—then melts for ever—
Or like the borealis race—
That flit e'er you can point their place,
Or like the rainbows lovely form,
Evanescent amid the storm."

I close this hurried notice of the great Scottish poet by quoting from one of his gems seldom read today, which, by the way, I had the honor of being asked to recite just fifty-four years ago at the hundredth anniversary of his birth.

"As the shades of evening close,
Beck'ning thence to long repose;
As life itself becomes disease,
Seek the chimney-nook of ease."

Thus resign'd and quiet creep
To the bed of lasting sleep;
Sleep, whence thou shalt never awake,
Night, when dawn shall never break.
Till future life, future no more,
To light and joy the good restore,
To light and joy, unknown before."

SOCCER

Andover Loses to Lawrence Olympics

The local soccer team was given a setback for the league championship last Saturday afternoon when they met the Olympics of Lawrence at Burnham Park, in Andover's final game of the competition. The grounds were in fearful condition and were not fit to play on, but the desire to settle, if possible, the championship, caused the teams to go on with the contest. There was a large attendance of spectators and while the mud prevented a high-class exhibition of football, there was plenty of excitement.

The Olympics had out their strongest team, and while having nothing at stake, they were determined to win and prevent the cup from going to Andover. In this they succeeded, for they have never played so strenuous a game as they did against the league leaders. The first half was evenly contested, although it was very evident that Andover would have a hard job to win with the ground so heavy. Their speed, especially in the work of Page, was slowed down to a great extent, and they never could get started with their own style of play. Each side scored once in the first half. The second period was wholly Andover's as far as play was concerned, but luck, the ankle-deep mud around the Olympic goal, and the absolutely brilliant goal-keeping of Hutton, prevented them scoring. No goal-keeper has given such an exhibition of saving as did Hutton Saturday afternoon, and his great work saved his team from a heavy defeat. He was fairly peppered with shots, but he appeared to know just when they were coming, and time and again saved miraculously. Meanwhile the Lawrence team scored twice, once from a penalty given against Downs, while Andover failed to tally, although Stirling missed a penalty kick, which was taken in a sea of mud. The result of the game gains nothing for the Olympics, but keeps Andover anxiously awaiting the results of the Light Blues and Manchester United games, which may not be played off until spring. At present Andover leads the league with twenty-three points.

HOLLIS STREET

Edward Sheldon's new play, "The High Road," is running at the Hollis street, and is attracting large audiences. It tells the story of the young girl who, living a dreary life on her father's farm, suddenly tastes of the luxury of life through her meeting with a rich artist. Later she awakes to realize life's responsibilities, and leaving home, she goes out to earn her own living, rising in prominence from year to year, until she has reached great distinction.

MAJESTIC

Graham Moffat's Scotch play, "Bunt Pulls the Strings," opened its limited engagement at the Majestic on Monday evening. A quaint and simple comedy, it appeals strongly to those who have tired of farcical comedies and musical shows.

CASTLE SQUARE

The third annual Harvard prize play was given its first presentation at Castle Square on Monday evening. The play, which is entitled "Believe Me, Xantippe," is a lively comedy of American life in New York and the far West. The plot concerns the escape of a young New Yorker who wagers that he can escape the law, evading police and detectives for one year. Accordingly, he commits what appears to be forgery, and the fun commences.

ST. JAMES

The St. James stock company are presenting Charles Klein's great play, "The Lion and the Mouse," giving it a very elaborate production. Miss

BOSTON

In its pictorial beauty and the strong flavor of the desert which it suggests, "The Garden of Allah" at the Boston theatre is a stage creation of exceeding beauty and vastness. It is proclaimed the most massive stage production of the American theatre and justly so.

COLONIAL

"Ziegfeld Follies," series of 1912, entered upon the last two weeks of its phenomenal Boston engagement at the Colonial theatre Monday night. The company, which is the best of any of the previous offerings, includes Harry Watson, Jr., Bert Williams, Leon Errol, Elizabeth Brice, and others.

PARK

"The Woman," David Belasco's great play of social and political life in Washington, began its fourth week at the Park theatre on Monday night. Nothing that Mr. Belasco has produced in recent years has been received with more enthusiasm than this play. The play deals with social and political topics of the day, and underlying the story is the great theme of human sympathy and of woman's loyalty to woman.

PLYMOUTH

Monday night George Arliss, who is appearing in "Disraeli" at the Plymouth theatre, entered upon the fifteenth week of his engagement in Boston. Those who have witnessed this delightful play are unanimous in their verdict that "Disraeli" is, without a doubt, the greatest play seen here in recent years. Its success is unprecedented. During its Boston run nearly 200,000 theatre-goers have enjoyed the performance.

TREMONT

"Milestones," the beautiful drama now running at the Tremont theatre, has more than repeated here the success achieved in London and New York. The production is absolutely unique, both in idea and treatment.

THE BURNS CONCERT

an outburst of human feeling, recognize in Robert Burns a munificent benefactor.

"Not wishing to encroach further on your time I trust you will appreciate the efforts of the Burns committee of Clan Johnston, which has spared neither time nor expense to give you one of the best concerts possible. I thank you all."

The concert program opened with a quartet arrangement of "Annie Laurie" which was finely rendered by the soloists of the evening. Miss Hood made her second appearance at the local anniversary, but she did not sing as well nor as smoothly as a year ago and failed in consequence to please many in the audience. She sang "The Scottish Bluebells" and for an encore gave "Oor Ain Folk." Her second selection was "Cam ye by Athol," so popular on Scottish concert programs, and she responded to an encore with "The Bonnie Brier Bush." Her best effort was in the duet, "The Promise," with Mr. Young, which was really a fine bit of singing and acting and which was deservedly encored.

Miss Jeanne Hunter Tanner, contralto, sang for the first time in Andover and the music-lovers in her audience will wish to hear her again. She has a rich, full, mellow voice and her songs suited it admirably. She delighted her hearers with a splendid performance of "The Auld Scotch Sangs," and rendered "Auld Robin Gray," a composition too seldom heard, in a faultless manner with fine feeling, although handicapped by a juvenile accompaniment which must have been annoying to the singer. She was warmly applauded and deserved the encore given her. In the duet with Mr. Singer, "The Crookit Bawbee," she made a great hit and though the last number on the program the audience insisted on an encore and both graciously obliged. It was a fine performance.

Many good things were said of John Young, tenor, in advance, and he fully lived up to the reputation which preceded him. He, too, was his first appearance in Andover and he merited all the applause and appreciation given him. His voice, of a sweet and pure tenor quality, was well suited to the songs he chose and all were splendidly rendered. In his encore on "Flow gently, sweet Afton," which, by the way, was sung with fine understanding and feeling, he gave "MacGregor's Gathering" in a spirited manner. "O' a' the Airt's" was much enjoyed, as was the encore, "The Lea-rig." Mr. Young will be warmly welcomed should he return to Andover again.

Little new can be said of Mr. Singer, who has earned a warm place in the hearts of Andover audiences at Scottish gatherings. He was given a rousing welcome and instantly captivated his audience with a fine rendering of "Scots wha hae," which was so boisterously applauded that he gave "Duncan Gray" and then "Bonnie Mary o' Argyleshire," a new song at Andover concerts. His other selections were "My love she's but a lassie yet" and "The piper o' Dundee," and as an encore he gave "The De'il's Awa." His singing in the duet with Mrs. Tanner was greatly enjoyed.

Two numbers on the program were greatly appreciated, the dancing by Misses Ferguson and Boyd. Their exhibitions in the Highland Fling, Sword Dance, Irish Jig and Sailors' Hornpipe, were done with a grace that pleased everyone. No better dancing has been done at a Burns celebration and they were greatly enjoyed.

The concert closed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," now fast becoming an international parting song, by the soloists and audience. The floor was immediately cleared for dancing, which to the excellent music furnished by the Columbian orchestra was enjoyed until early morning. The grand march, under the efficient direction of Robert Williams, floor director, assisted by David H. Rae, was led by Chief Edwin Nicoll and Miss Elizabeth Lowe, and the different movements were watched with much interest by those not participating.

The success of these annual concerts is due to the hard work and untiring efforts of the committee which have striven each year to the best of their knowledge to give to their patrons the best exponents of Scottish song obtainable. Each year the price demanded by these soloists increases and if the high standard is to be maintained, it may mean that the committee may find themselves obliged to raise the price of admission. No other organization in town gives so high-class an entertainment at the same price as does the Clan. The committee in charge of the celebration consisted of Samuel R. Harris, chairman; Harry Gouck, treasurer; David H. Rae, secretary; Thomas Thin, John Auchterlonie, John Elder, Edwin Nicoll, Wm. MacKenzie, David MacEwan, Robert Dobbie, Charles S. Buchan, Robert Williams.

Decorations: Massachusetts Decorating Co., Lawrence; window display, Wyllie & Co. Among those present were: Rev. and Mrs. E. A. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. OBITUARIES

EDWARD SHATTUCK

Edward Shattuck, a lifelong and highly respected resident of the West Parish, passed away at his home on the well-known Shattuck farm on Sunday evening, January 19. The deceased had been in poor health for about a year, and had failed rapidly of late.

Mr. Shattuck was born in Andover on June 21, 1837, the son of Joseph Shattuck and Mary Bailey, in the same house which has been his home for over seventy-five years and in which he died. As a boy he attended the town schools here and later was a student at Lawrence Academy, Groton.

His first business venture was made in the firm of Briggs, Shattuck & Co., wholesale grocers, located in Boston. Later, for many years he was associated with his brothers,
Joseph and Charles, in the grocery business, under the firm name of Shattuck Bros., the concern at one time occupying the block on Essex street, Lawrence, where the Lawrence
Gas Company is now located.

In 1897 Mr. Shattuck retired from his business life in Lawrence and returned to his West Andover farm, where he has since lived. At this time he became very much interested in the raising of cattle and his fine specimens of the Holstein and Jersey breeds have ranked high among the cattle raisers of the state. The agricultural possibilities of the farm itself were taken advantage of by Mr.
Shattuck so that it is one of the best and most productive in the surrounding country.

Mr. Shattuck leaves his widow,
Sarah Josephine; two sons, George
H. of Salem, and Edward, junior, manager of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company in Worcester; two brothers, Charles W.
of Winchester and Joseph Shattuck of Lawrence.

The funeral was held from the late home on the River road on Wednesday afternoon. Services were also conducted in the West church by Rev. Edward D. Johnson of Salem, a nephew of the deceased, assisted by Rev. Dean A. Walker, pastor of the West church. The bearers were four nephews: Charles E. Shattuck of Winchester, Joseph Shattuck, Jr., of Springfield, Harry and Mitchell Johnson of Methuen. The remains were taken on Thursday to Mt. Auburn cemetery, Cambridge, for cremation.

ANNIE MOONEY

Mrs. Annie Mooney, widow of the late Patrick Mooney, passed away at the family home, 13 Pearson street, on Thursday, January 16. The deceased has been ill about two months.

Mrs. Mooney was born in England fifty-two years ago, but had lived for many years in this country and in Andover. Kindly and sympathetic, she had many friends and acquaintances here who, in addition to her two sons by a former marriage, Thomas and Michael Malone, will mourn her loss. She also leaves four sisters, two of whom, Mrs. James Dugan and Mrs. Benjamin Hibbert, reside in Andover, and also one brother.

The funeral was held on Saturday morning at nine o'clock at St. Augustine's church. High mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Wm.
E. Donovan. Among the floral tributes were the following: Pillow, inscribed "Mother," from the family;
wreath of roses, brother and sister;
spray of pinks, Mrs. Ada Wormald; spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. John Hoyt; spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs.
Benjamin Hibbert.

The bearers were Daniel Donovan,
James Hibbert, Michael Golden,
Peter Dugan, John Hoyt, and Brian Noon. Interment took place in the family lot in St. Augustine's cemetry.

RALPH PENNEY

Ralph Penney, aged 76 years and 6 months, passed away at the Hood
Farm in West Andover on Friday,
January 17.

The deceased was a native of Knox,
Me., having been born there on June 29, 1836, the son of Robert and Delia Penney.

The body was sent to Maine for burial on Tuesday.

GRACE RAMSEY

Grace Ramsey, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Ramsay of Pynchard avenue, died on Saturday, January 18, aged 5 months and 14 days. Death was due to diththeria.

The funeral was held on Sunday at two o'clock, a service being conducted by Dr. Frederic Palmer at the grave in West Parish cemetery.

HENRY HAIGH

Henry Haigh, whose home was in New Hampshire, but who has been visiting in Andover since November, passed away at the home of his son,
William Haigh, 135 North Main street, on Wednesday, January 22.
He was seventy-five years of age.
